

Could metabolic risk factors contribute to the development of cervical cancer?

<h2>Abstract</h2>

The role of human papillomavirus infection as etiological factor for cervical squamous intraepithelial lesions and cervical cancer is well established. However, the presence of this virus is not sufficient condition for developing of cervical cancer. Current...