

Research Article

Published Date: 12/05/2019

Aggressive hydration in early resuscitation phase does not provide mortality benefit in acute pancreatitis

<h2>Abstract</h2>

Introduction: Fluid management is the cornerstone of treatment for acute pancreatitis (AP), but the proper rate and volume is still controversial. We aim to evaluate the role of aggressive

hydration in AP patients.

&...

Research Article

Published Date: 11/27/2019

Gaucher's disease and liver involvement: A review and our experience

<h2>Abstract</h2>

Background: This article reviews current knowledge of Gaucher's disease (GD) and liver involvement and reports our experience: how many patients with chronic liver disease of unknown origin could be affected by Gaucher's...

Research Article

Published Date: 11/13/2019

Evaluation of outcomes of 8-week therapy with ledipasvir/sofosbuvir or glecaprevir/pibrentasvir in veterans with hepatitis C infection

<h2>Summary</h2>

Hepatitis C Virus (HCV) infection is usually treated with direct acting antivirals (DAAs) for 12 weeks. In treatment naive patients with genotype (GT) 1 infection without cirrhosis and baseline viral load ≤ 6 million, 8 weeks of Ledipasvir/Sofosbuvir (L...

Research Article

Published Date: 09/20/2019

Addition of Simvastatin to Carvedilol and Endoscopic Variceal Ligation improves rebleeding and survival in patients with Child-Pugh A and B class but not in Child Pugh C class

<h2>Summary</h2>

Background: Even with current standard treatment after variceal bleeding

which includes combination of nonselective b-blockers and repeated endoscopic variceal ligation, the risk of rebleeding and mortality are high. Statins exhib...

Research Article

Published Date: 07/08/2019

Endoscopic treatment of pancreatic diseases via Duodenal Minor Papilla: 135 cases treated by Sphincterotomy, Endoscopic Pancreatic Duct Balloon Dilation \(EPDBD\), and Pancreatic Stenting \(EPS\)

<h2>Abstract</h2>

Treatments via the minor papilla is effective where the deep cannulation via the major papilla is impossible

in such cases as [1] the Wirsung's duct is inflammatory narrowed, bent or obstructed by impacted stones

[2] pancreatic duct divisum (comple...

Research Article

Published Date: 06/07/2019

Transcatheter Arterial Embolization for the treatment of upper gastrointestinal bleeding

<h2>Abstract</h2>

Background: Transcatheter arterial embolization can be used for patients with recurrent bleeding from the upper gastrointestinal tract after failed endoscopic treatment. Our aim to identify the clinical and technical factors that...

Case Report

Published Date: 04/26/2019

An uncommon cause of isolated ascites: Pseudomyxoma peritonei

<h2>Summary</h2>

Pseudomyxoma peritonei or Gelatinous Peritoneal Disease is a rare disease. We report a case treated in the department of Hepato-Gastroenterology at Ibn Sina Hospital in Rabat, of a 64-year-old male who presented with an abdominal pain and an increased volume ...